Aloha Animal Lovers,

We just returned from Hawaii where we experienced the beauty of the Big Island from our home base 2,000 feet above Kailua-Kona at Mango Sunset B & B

<http://www.mangosunset.com> an inn that is part of a working organic coffee farm. Our visits took us to three amazing animal organizations: Hawaii Island Humane Society

<http://www.hihs.org> which helps a wide variety of companion critters at three shelters around the island. Three Ring Ranch Exotic Animal Sanctuary <http://www.threeringranch.org> a facility providing for the complex needs of exotic, illegal and native wild animals. And the Hawaii Wildlife Center

<http://www.hawaiiwildlifecenter.org> which hopes to open its doors soon for native species in need of treatment and rehabilitation.

If combining a vacation with volunteering at, or visiting, an animal rescue interests you check out the "Helping State-by-State" listings on AmericaHelpsAnimals.com to see which ones might be a good fit. For us, seeing first-hand what other animal lovers are doing is inspiring and often the high point of our trip. Of course, always double check your plans with the rescue to be sure your visit will work for them.

Great news! Our cartoons, Dog Park and Everyday Cat, are now available world-wide through Cartoonstock.com in England. Click the link below (and then the "See More" button) to view the whole collection. <http://bit.ly/cd2Swo>

Be sure to take a look at our website's sleek new format at <http://www.americahelpsanimals.com> and please forward the link to your animal loving friends.

Mahalo (thanks) for all you do for animals.

Jim, Joanne, Holly (the dog) and Lovey (the alpha cat)
